Caregiver input is critically important to help inform decisions throughout the progress of the case. Caregiver Input forms can be provided at any point in the case, but are especially important at critical decision-making junctures such as judicial review hearings, reunification, and permanency decisions. As a caregiver, you have the right to be present and heard at all court hearings regarding the children you are caring for. You have the right to provide written input to the court as well. Caregiver Input forms will be filed with the court. You have a right to be invited to and participate in staffings and meetings regarding the children in your care.

Return the completed Caregiver Input form to your Family Care Counselor/Supervisor:

The next court hearing will be held:

Date: _____ Time: _____ Location _____

I plan to attend the hearing or I do not plan to attend the hearing.

I would like to be recognized/heard at the hearing. or I would not like to be recognized/heard at the hearing.

General Information:

Please share any information you would like the Court and Team to have that will help us in making decisions regarding the action to take in this case.

Please share information and/or concerns with the child's health, mental health, education, or dental care that the Court or Team needs to be aware of.

Visitation:

How often is each parent visiting with their child? If siblings are separated, how often are siblings visiting? Describe the frequency, duration and interactions during visitations.
